

Bryce Gauthier

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT, BCSLA, CSLA, LEED® Accredited Professional

SPECIALTY

Bryce Gauthier, Principal, ELG

Bryce strives to bring a greater sense of culture, history, and ecology to our communities. His goal is to never look at a space or problem only from a landscape point of view; but instead tackles problems with the perspective of someone who has lived in different places, worked in different environments and dealt with urban issues from a range of scales and perspectives.

After starting his career in 1997 as a planner and housing consultant, he returned to the University of British Columbia to pursue a Masters degree in Landscape Architecture. In 2001 he moved to Shanghai where he rose to the role of senior urban designer for Earthasia, one of China's largest landscape architecture firms. He led many international competitions, including the Winning Submission for Shanghai's 2010 Expo Post Development. He returned to Vancouver in 2006 to become Senior Associate at Sharp + Diamond Landscape Architecture Inc. With a particular focus on aspects of ecologically based site design and construction he led many important green projects, including the Van Dusen Botanical Gardens Visitors Centre, which is currently awaiting designation as a Living Building.
